

By Sofia Moreno

gossip girl

Published by
The Feminist Press

Hello delegates, Gossip Girl here. Did you miss me? Cause I sure missed you. I'm sure you've all heard by now, but in case you haven't I'm here to tell you. Donald Trump was murdered while giving a speech. Love him or hate him, Trump was undeniable someone...memorable. And, well, I'm feeling a little nostalgic, so I thought I'd do a recap of darling Trump's top three worst sexist comments and views, so everyone knows properly who they are mourning.

1. "When you're a star, they let you do it. You can do anything"

Let's start with Trump's most popular comment. In the video that went viral, Trump talks about his particular approach to women. He talks about how he can't control himself and just starts kissing attractive women, doesn't even wait.

Taken from The Guardian

And of course he can, because he is a star, and stars can do anything. He grabs them by the pussy and he can, because he can do anything. Let's not even bring up consent, much less basic human respect towards others. Surely Trump never heard of this concepts, but it's fine because he is a star so he doesn't need to worry about these things. He can openly brag about kissing women without consent and get away with it. He can go around preaching these sort of behaviors and be president of a nation, be one of the most influential voices in this same country.

2.His view on marriage and wives

"Putting a wife to work is a dangerous thing" that is what dear Trump thinks and has expressed. Starting off with the assumption that the husband puts the wife to work, not that she chooses to work which is already a wrong assumption to start with because, and this might be surprising to hear to people who agree with Trump so prepare, women have autonomy over themselves and don't live life trying to please their husband! Incredible, isn't it? Additionally, its rather ridiculous how he found the thought of a wife working so threatening. Just like a little boy.

Taken from Sky News

This is not the only controversial view he has shown. He compared women and his wives to creating a building, saying that once they are a star the fun is over for him. Once again, with his presumption that women are there to please and entertain them.

Taken from CBS News

Lastly, he believes that not all women want to be respected, and that sometimes the husband will get a "better" wife if he respects her less. No wonder he's gotten divorced twice.

3.His obsession with women's looks

For someone who has such a low image of women, he pays an a lot of attention to their looks, and determines their value based on them. Its not even surprising at this point, really.

Taken from The New York Times

"Rosie O'Donnell is disgusting, both inside and out. If you take a look at her, she's a slob. How does she even get on television? If I were running The View, I'd fire Rosie. I'd look her right in that fat, ugly face of hers and say, 'Rosie, you're fired.'"

Trump said this in Entertainment Tonight, back in 2006, and though no one loves a good rivalry like I do, Trump is truly disrespectful multiple times and, on top of that, he always insults O'Donnell's looks, because apparently he can't think of anything beyond how she looks.

Image taken from The Rolling Stone

A few examples of the times he has diminished women to their looks, because he is terribly obsessed:

- He reduced an olympic medallist to her looks, saying that she was hardly attractive up close. Because that is whats most important about her, not her medals. Obviously.

- Made beauty pageants parade in front of him. Not uncomfortable for them at all, of course.

- Kept a "fat picture" of one of his employees that he would pull out whenever she did something that displeased him. Quite a charmer.

Anyway delegates, I hope that I managed to shine a bit of light of who Trump truly was, specially regarding women, and well, quite honestly, I can't say I will mourn his dead. All of these actions speak volumes about this man. Farewell delegates, you know you love, xoxo, Gossip Girl